

PETER IS A MODEST PUG.

The Colored Champion's Head Not at All Swelled.

HE MAKES MANY WARM FRIENDS.

Hundreds of English Admirers Show Their Appreciation of His Prowess—Smith's Glory Has All Departed.

Jackson Being Idolized.

Copyright 1889 by James Gordon Bennett.

London, Nov. 11.—[New York Herald Cable-Special to The Bee.]—Two of the most placid men in London to-day were "Parson" Davies and Peter Jackson. No body would have been surprised if Jackson had been a bit excited, for it is said that a man has had the good fortune to whip England's champion heavy-weight in five minutes and in the same period put into his pocket £200, and do all this without getting a scratch. Peter Jackson is undoubtedly a modest person, though no white man has ever seen him knock. This may be an account of his color, which is a gruff darker than polished ebony. But whether or not he is given to blushing, Jackson is modest. He was just as unassuming this evening as he was on Sunday evening, yet between the two evenings he had demonstrated that all the judges or alleged judges of prize fighters who claimed that he was a tapper and not a hitter or stunner, were mistaken, and didn't know what they were talking about. The Smith-Jackson fight will go down in pugilistic history as one of the extraordinary affairs of the ring. A stranger and a man of color comes to a land where thousands of miles from that his birth with a man whom he had known for less than a year and stands before a man who had long posed as the most dangerous fighter of a land that has furnished hundreds of men who were his equals or superiors, and vanquishes that man in his own home and in the midst of hundreds of his partisans in one of the shortest fights on record.

Among the patrons of prize fighting in England to-day it is probable that Jackson has far more friends than Smith. None of the hundreds who witnessed Monday evening's affair will deny that he deserves to have more. England has had few champions who were so quickly and thoroughly vanquished as Smith was, and she has never had a champion who made such a poor appearance, either before the battle was decided or in the hour of defeat.

When Smith, knowing that he was a beaten man, deliberately cross-buttocked Jackson, and was promptly adjudged the loser by the referee, he made what most of his class called a bluff that dropped out of sight in the estimation of those who love fair play. He pulled off his gloves and attempted to make a rush at Jackson, who, knowing he had won, had dropped his hands to his sides. Seeing Smith's intent, the Australian pulled off his left glove, but could not loosen the right.

"Clear it off," Parson Davies called out to him. Still the glove would not come off, but Jackson calmly returned to those who held Smith: "Let him come on; don't hold him." The colored champion felt certain that he could give Smith more than he wanted with bare knuckles as well as with four-o'clock gloves. Of course Smith didn't come on. He didn't a decent blow left in him. That is the opinion of men who watched the contest closely, and it is certainly the opinion of Parson Davies and Peter Jackson. The latter said this evening that he was in first rate condition, and hadn't been distressed a bit by his exertion in the ring.

At the conclusion of the fight he was driven to his hotel. There he ate a light lunch and drank a glass of beer, while some of the men who had won money on him sat around him and quaffed champagne until too much to have shown himself. The language of one of Smith's seconds, Jack Harper, while Jackson was showering blows without getting a return, was bad enough to have thrown even a man who was fighting for £300 off his guard. That it did not was an evidence of Jackson's great coolness.

Parson Davies said to night that Jackson was open to all challenges from anyone in the world. Sullivan had drawn the color around him and could wrap himself in it if he saw fit, but if he wanted a fight with Jackson he could be accommodated. Negotiations between Jackson and Slavin had been in progress, but had come to naught. Jackson has been made a handsome offer for nine nights in London and another for two weeks in Paris from December 1. It will be decided to-day whether or not these offers will be accepted. If the Paris offer is taken Jackson will, at its conclusion, start on a tour through England, Scotland and Ireland, after which he will sail for the United States.

Richard K. Fox goes into ecstasies over Jackson. He saw the Jackson-Smith fight and became so excited that his roar of "Good boy, Jackson," could be heard above the din of the 600 who crowded the rooms of the Pelican club. Fox called on Jackson to day and left his card, upon which he wrote, "Good old champion, Peter." Fox considers Jackson a world-beater and would probably be glad to get hold of him if the Australian were not under the wing of Parson Davies, who is a pretty fair judge of fighters himself and is supposed to know when he has booked a good thing.

A Letter From Stanley.

Copyright 1889 by James Gordon Bennett.

ZANZIBAR, Nov. 11.—[New York Herald Cable-Special to The Bee.]—The British minister here, has received a letter from Stanley, in which the explorer says he hopes to reach Zanzibar about the middle of January next. He, however, says nothing about the route he proposes traveling. James, English consul, when asked by your correspondent whether he considered Dr. Peters to be still alive, replied that in his opinion there was no reason to doubt the authenticity of the report of his assassination.

News From American Astronomers.

VICENT, Cayo Del Valle Islands, Nov. 11.—[New York Herald Cable-Special to The Bee.]—The United States steamer Pensacola, with Prof. Todd and his astronomical party to observe the solar eclipse in Sierra Leone, arrived to-day at Port Adelaide, St. Vincent. Their voyage was a pleasant one. The weather was moderately rough, with easterly winds. All are well on board. The Pensacola will sail for London on Wednesday.

To Start After Stanley.

Copyright 1889 by James Gordon Bennett.

ZANZIBAR, Nov. 11.—[New York Herald Cable-Special to The Bee.]—Captain Wiseman has sent me word that I can go up the country with my expedition to meet Mr. Stanley and his supplies of tea, quinine, tobacco and other necessities. Captain Wiseman will give me an escort in addition to my own men, but says that I must fly the German flag. Captain Wiseman comes here from the coast to-night. The German government asked him yesterday to give me every assistance. Captain Wiseman captured Sadani yesterday, with a loss of two killed and four wounded. The Bahaberi fled in a northerly direction. The road to Sadani and M'wippa is now open.

THE WORLD'S FAIR.

Chicago Has a Bill Ready to Present to Congress.

CHICAGO, Nov. 11.—At the meeting of the committee on congressional action held this afternoon a bill submitted by Congressmen Payne and Wood was introduced and presented at the coming session of congress to secure the location of the world's fair at Chicago. The title of the bill is:

"A bill relative to celebrating the four hundredth anniversary of the discovery of America by Columbus, by holding an exposition of arts, industries, manufactures and products of the world in the city of Chicago, and the state of Illinois, in the year eighteen hundred and ninety two."

A BIG CLAIM.

Allan C. Story's Immense Bill for Legal Services.

CHICAGO, Nov. 11.—[Special Telegram to The Bee.]—A stupendous claim of $21,200 for legal services was put in against the heirs of the late C. J. Hull, the West-side millionaire, by Attorney Allan C. Story, and whether Mr. Story has a lien on the $200,000 which Hull left in trust for his children, or whether Hull left property worth $50,000,000. It was said of him that he owned "half of the west side of the city of Chicago." He was a general manager and housekeeper, Miss Helen Culver, having no son and no heirs, and no living issue. His next of kin were some remote cousins, nephews and nieces, who were left nothing. These heirs numbered nine and a half that dropped out of sight in the estimation of those who love fair play. He pulled off his gloves and attempted to make a rush at Jackson, who, knowing he had won, had dropped his hands to his sides. Seeing Smith's intent, the Australian pulled off his left glove, but could not loosen the right.

FAMINE IN THE TRANSVAAL.

Tariffs Abolished and Premiums Offered For Food Imports.

LONDON, Nov. 11.—Advisors from South Africa report great distress in the Transvaal resulting from drought and famine. The situation is critical at Johannesburg, where breadstuffs are selling at famine prices. The Natal government has offered a bonus of £100,000 to the first fifty provision wagons starting for Johannesburg. The Pretoria government has abolished all tariffs on food and has offered a bonus of £100,000 to the first fifty provision wagons starting for Johannesburg. The managers were fined $10 each and all the performers were released to pay the costs of their prosecution.

IT WAS THE LIQUOR MEN.

Ohio's Governor Explains His Recent Defeat.

CINCINNATI, Nov. 11.—In an interview with Commercial Gazette reporter to-day, Governor Foraker stated that he attributed his defeat to the hostility of the liquor interest of not only this state but the whole country. He said he doubted less lost votes than in any other cases, but this was the chief one.

Cincinnati South Breakers.

CINCINNATI, Nov. 11.—Three theatre managers, together with one opera or gaiety company and one dramatic company, were held in the city to-day for violating the law by giving Sunday performances yesterday. The managers were fined $10 each and all the performers were released to pay the costs of their prosecution.

The East Africa Company Alarmed.

LONDON, Nov. 11.—Since the news arrived of the onward march of Stanley with Emin Pasha and his party, and of the reported disaster to Dr. Peters' relief expedition the British East Africa company has been rapidly picking up all the best available men to send out to protect its territory from the raids of the rebellious natives. Stanley's march has excited the activity in securing fighting men from the British East Africa company, which is expected to have secured about 1,000 fighting men for its territory against the Arabs. The latest news from that region indicates that all the native elements are up in arms and are for the moment breaking in a common front to drive out the detested foreigners. This serious uprising on the part of the natives is probably the result of Stanley's march, which has increased the sphere of German influence by exterminating the people.

Massacred By Masked Men.

HUNTINGTON, W. Va., Nov. 11.—A report which is thought to be trustworthy reached here yesterday that a party of masked men broke into the house of Paris Blumfield, on Park street, Saturday night, and killed Blumfield and his wife.

They Fixed Ferdinand's Fate.

PARIS, Nov. 11.—The Senate has just received the news of the execution of Ferdinand Blumfield, a Hungarian nobleman, who was executed by guillotining on the 10th inst.

THE LAY CATHOLIC CONGRESS.

It Opens at Baltimore With Twelve Hundred Delegates.

A BLESSING FROM THE POPE.

Orator Daniel Dougherty Gives a Sketch of Catholicism in America, Its Grand Accomplishments and Its Wonderful Growth.

A Great Religious Gathering.

BALTIMORE, Md., Nov. 11.—Twelve hundred delegates to the Lay Catholic Congress of the United States were called to order shortly before noon to-day by Hon. W. J. Onahan, of Chicago. Every seat in Concordia hall was filled, and the galleries were crowded with spectators. Archbishop Ireland briefly invoked the divine blessing.

Cardinal Gibbons delivered an address of welcome in the course of which he had for a long time desired to see the clergy and the laity come more closely together. The clergy, he said, have more to learn from the laity, from their wisdom and discretion and, above all, from the worldly knowledge of the laity, and that there is no country on the face of the earth where the clergy and the laity are more united than in these United States.

In a few remarks introducing ex-Governor Lee Carroll as temporary chairman, Onahan mentioned the name of Pope Leo. Instantly there was hand clapping and cheering, and the hall was filled with a turmoil of enthusiasm. Onahan's suggestion that he hoped not far distant to see an illustration of the union of the clergy and the laity met with hearty approval.

Ex-Governor Carroll was warmly applauded on taking the chair. He said that the Lay Catholic Congress, so far as the forum of others yet to come, and that the Catholics of the United States would be united in their efforts to bring about a union of the clergy and the laity, and that the Congress had but two great purposes at heart—the glory and greatness of the Catholic church and the continued prosperity of the American people.

The following cablegram from Rome to Cardinal Gibbons was read: "Having made known to the holy father the resolutions of the congress, we beg him to impart his blessing to all the members."

Daniel Dougherty, of New York, was introduced by the chairman as the orator of the day, and when he stepped to the front was given a perfect ovation. He sketched Catholicism in the United States, and pointed out the progress the Catholics had made in the past century, in comparison with other religions, and in the United States, in particular.

They were spurred, slandered and vilified. The highest honors of the republic were denied them, and they were treated as constitutional rebels. The Catholics in many institutions of learning and in many professions were excluded from the ranks of the citizenry. Catholic chaplains were very few. The time had come when they could no longer be tolerated as a separate and inferior class.

The Catholic church is the protector of the weak and the oppressed. It is the only religion in America which has established in America by Catholics alone, and in every battle the Catholics sealed their devotion to the country by their blood.

A POWDER EXPLOSION.

Several Men Instantly Killed and Severely Injured.

PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 11.—An explosion of powder occurred at the chemical manufacturing establishment of Wiley & Wallace this afternoon by which three men were instantly killed, and several others severely injured. The explosion was caused by the ignition of a bottle of flash powder in a sink.

FEARFUL FLOODS.

Over Ten Thousand People Rendered Homeless in China.

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 11.—[Special Telegram to The Bee.]—The floods in and around Ning Po have rendered upward of 10,000 people homeless. A village near Wenchow has been washed away and 500 families drowned. The distress among the people up the Han river from Swatow is greater than it has ever been since 1857.

THE MATTER WITH OHIO.

General H. V. Boynton, the well known Washington correspondent, has just returned from a visit to the state of Ohio.

MYSTERIOUS THREATS.

Several Citizens of an Illinois Town Terrified.

GALVESTON, Ill., Nov. 11.—Considerable excitement prevails here over a mysterious case which has recently occurred. A man named Starks was burned Saturday morning by a fire of mysterious origin. John Freeman has received a letter threatening him with trouble unless he pays $10,000.

THE CHIEF KEES.

TAMMERCAN, I. T., Nov. 11.—The Cherokee nation to-day took up the matter of the sale of the outlet to the government. It was referred to the committee on foreign affairs, which is composed of ex-Chief Ross, P. H. Mayes, a brother of Chief Mayes, and Stephen Tule, all of whom are opposed to the sale of the land.

A Railroad Strike Settled.

EVANSTON, Ill., Nov. 11.—The strike of the freight conductors and engineers on the Peoria, Decatur & Evansville road ended to-day by a compromise, the terms of which have not been made public.

Two Boys Drowned.

PITTSBURGH, Nov. 11.—A boat containing four boys capsized on the Monaca channel this afternoon and two were drowned.

A VERY ARDENT MAHONE MAN.

Senator Blair Lauds the General to the Skies.

CIVIL SERVICE LAW WORTHLESS.

It Ought to Go, Says the Son of the Granite State—Morton's License—A Diagnosis of Ohio's Affliction.

WASHINGTON REPORTS.

WASHINGTON, D. C., Nov. 11.—Senator Blair, of New Hampshire, stamped Virginia for the republicans in speaking to-day of the defeat there said: "General Mahone is about the best republican in the United States, in my opinion. The party will be ungrateful if it forgets him. Did he not stand bravely, squarely and aggressively with us on every public question in the senate? He most certainly did. No truer, more loyal republican exists in public life, and he still lives."

THE NEW MEXICO BLIZZARD.

The Loss of Stock Said to Have Been Greatly Exaggerated.

DENVER, Colo., Nov. 11.—[Special Telegram to The Bee.]—Regarding reported stock losses in New Mexico, a special from Baton, N. M., to-night says: "The loss of stock is greatly exaggerated. On the prairie stock will suffer considerably. Sheep are being driven to the mountains, and the loss will be light. If the cold weather continues, there will be a great suffering and heavy losses will follow."

A Trinidad special says that snow began falling in that island on the 10th inst. and that the Fort Worth road is again blocked. Great suffering for want of provisions is also reported on the line of the road west of Fort Worth.

Trinidad, Colo., Nov. 11.—The survivors from the recent snow blockade arrived in this city to-day. Many of them spent several days in the car without food or water. They report that the suffering by man and stock was not so bad as was reported. An engineer named Patrick Casey says that he was eleven days in making the trip from Trinidad to Texline. For several days he was without food, and was compelled to eat jack rabbit raw when he caught in the snow. A party of seven men snow-shovelled their way to a shop where they were sheltered. Two horses, which were being shipped in a caboose car, were taken out, killed and eaten raw. One herder is said to have lost a horse and a flock of 8,000 sheep. The snow is still falling and to-night eight inches has been added to the twenty inches already on the ground.

N. Y., Nov. 11.—All previous reports about the loss of life and property have been confirmed. The total loss of life is estimated at 100,000, and the property loss at 20,000,000. The thermometer to-night is down to zero.

Show in Kansas.

KANSAS CITY, Nov. 11.—Dispatches from southern and western Kansas state that a blizzard is sweeping over that country. The wind turned to the north, early in the evening and brought with it snow, which in some localities is drifting badly. At Syracuse the blizzard is at its height. The blizzard reports a severe wind and thick snow.

Over Ten Thousand People Rendered Homeless in China.

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 11.—[Special Telegram to The Bee.]—The floods in and around Ning Po have rendered upward of 10,000 people homeless. A village near Wenchow has been washed away and 500 families drowned.

A POWDER EXPLOSION.

Several Men Instantly Killed and Severely Injured.

PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 11.—An explosion of powder occurred at the chemical manufacturing establishment of Wiley & Wallace this afternoon by which three men were instantly killed, and several others severely injured. The explosion was caused by the ignition of a bottle of flash powder in a sink.

FEARFUL FLOODS.

Over Ten Thousand People Rendered Homeless in China.

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 11.—[Special Telegram to The Bee.]—The floods in and around Ning Po have rendered upward of 10,000 people homeless. A village near Wenchow has been washed away and 500 families drowned. The distress among the people up the Han river from Swatow is greater than it has ever been since 1857.

THE MATTER WITH OHIO.

General H. V. Boynton, the well known Washington correspondent, has just returned from a visit to the state of Ohio.

MYSTERIOUS THREATS.

Several Citizens of an Illinois Town Terrified.

GALVESTON, Ill., Nov. 11.—Considerable excitement prevails here over a mysterious case which has recently occurred. A man named Starks was burned Saturday morning by a fire of mysterious origin. John Freeman has received a letter threatening him with trouble unless he pays $10,000.

THE CHIEF KEES.

TAMMERCAN, I. T., Nov. 11.—The Cherokee nation to-day took up the matter of the sale of the outlet to the government. It was referred to the committee on foreign affairs, which is composed of ex-Chief Ross, P. H. Mayes, a brother of Chief Mayes, and Stephen Tule, all of whom are opposed to the sale of the land.

A Railroad Strike Settled.

EVANSTON, Ill., Nov. 11.—The strike of the freight conductors and engineers on the Peoria, Decatur & Evansville road ended to-day by a compromise, the terms of which have not been made public.

Two Boys Drowned.

PITTSBURGH, Nov. 11.—A boat containing four boys capsized on the Monaca channel this afternoon and two were drowned.

GRAND ISLAND & WYOMING CENTRAL RAILROAD.

Services From Alliance via Homestead and Alliance to Cheyenne, increasing the distance fifty-seven miles. Wapello to Tooele, 100 miles. From November 15 increase the service to six trips a week.

Congressman John R. Wilson arrived from his home in the state of Washington to-day. He has announced himself in favor of John M. Carson for clerk of the house, and in a solid denunciation of the four new states. In view of the fact that the majority of the Pennsylvania delegation have announced for Carson it is probable that Mr. Wilson, the other aspirant, will withdraw from the race.

WELCOME WASHINGTON.

The President Signs the Proclamation Admitting the Territory.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 11.—President Harrison signed the proclamation admitting the territory to the union of states at 5:27 p. m. to-day. The proclamation sets forth the provisions of the act of congress, and states that it has been complied with by the government of the territory, and that the conditions imposed to entitle the state to admission have been fulfilled and accepted, and that the territory of Washington into the union is now complete.

How the News Was Received.

OLYMPIA, Wash., Nov. 11.—While the house was this afternoon debating a joint resolution to hold a joint session and proceed to the election of United States senators, a message was received from the governor of Washington, announcing the receipt of a dispatch from Secretary Haine stating that the president had signed the admission proclamation. Instantly every member of the house rose and cheered. The proclamation also was received with the usual enthusiasm. The admission of the new state officers takes place next Monday.

HE ANSWERED A "PERSONAL."

A Former Omaha Man Gets Into Trouble in St. Paul.

ST. PAUL, Minn., Nov. 11.—[Special Telegram to The Bee.]—On October 31 the following notice card was sent to the Sunday Sun:

Please find enclosed a notice to be inserted in the "personal" column of the Sun; and also stamps to pay for same.

NINA MATTHEWS. The paper, on November 3, published the "ad," which read:

A handsome girl in her teens wishes to form the acquaintance of a pretty young man with a mustache, residing speedily married. Write to Nina Matthews, 233 East Seventh street, third floor, city.

The "ad" was the note to the editor were in the same handwriting.

Miss Matthews, 233 East Seventh street, noticed the advertisement and called the attention of her stepfather, Mr. Hoar, to it. He was indignant, and ordered her to present the case to him. That official summoned Walker B. Sansay, editor of the paper to which the note and "ad" had been sent, and told him the original of the note and the "ad" was a forgery, under section 3 of the statute, relating to forgery, which prohibited the use of a false name, or the name of another to a letter, whereby the person is injured in good name; and it was decided to investigate. Miss Matthews, a young girl, was called to the office, and was directed to reply to any letters that might be received as the answer to the "ad."

She has not received a letter since she was called to the office, and she has not seen the description and would be pleased to make her acquaintance, and appointed a meeting at the office of Mr. Hoar, on Saturday afternoon. She was there on Saturday and presented the case to him. That official summoned Walker B. Sansay, editor of the paper to which the note and "ad" had been sent, and told him the original of the note and the "ad" was a forgery, under section 3 of the statute, relating to forgery, which prohibited the use of a false name, or the name of another to a letter, whereby the person is injured in good name; and it was decided to investigate. Miss Matthews, a young girl, was called to the office, and was directed to reply to any letters that might be received as the answer to the "ad."

She has not received a letter since she was called to the office, and she has not seen the description and would be pleased to make her acquaintance, and appointed a meeting at the office of Mr. Hoar, on Saturday afternoon. She was there on Saturday and presented the case to him. That official summoned Walker B. Sansay, editor of the paper to which the note and "ad" had been sent, and told him the original of the note and the "ad" was a forgery, under section 3 of the statute, relating to forgery, which prohibited the use of a false name, or the name of another to a letter, whereby the person is injured in good name; and it was decided to investigate. Miss Matthews, a young girl, was called to the office, and was directed to reply to any letters that might be received as the answer to the "ad."

She has not received a letter since she was called to the office, and she has not seen the description and would be pleased to make her acquaintance, and appointed a meeting at the office of Mr. Hoar, on Saturday afternoon. She was there on Saturday and presented the case to him. That official summoned Walker B. Sansay, editor of the paper to which the note and "ad" had been sent, and told him the original of the note and the "ad" was a forgery, under section 3 of the statute, relating to forgery, which prohibited the use of a false name, or the name of another to a letter, whereby the person is injured in good name; and it was decided to investigate. Miss Matthews, a young girl, was called to the office, and was directed to reply to any letters that might be received as the answer to the "ad."

She has not received a letter since she was called to the office, and she has not seen the description and would be pleased to make her acquaintance, and appointed a meeting at the office of Mr. Hoar, on Saturday afternoon. She was there on Saturday and presented the case to him. That official summoned Walker B. Sansay, editor of the paper to which the note and "ad" had been sent, and told him the original of the note and the "ad" was a forgery, under section 3 of the statute, relating to forgery, which prohibited the use of a false name, or the name of another to a letter, whereby the person is injured in good name; and it was decided to investigate. Miss Matthews, a young girl, was called to the office, and was directed to reply to any letters that might be received as the answer to the "ad."

She has not received a letter since she was called to the office, and she has not seen the description and would be pleased to make her acquaintance, and appointed a meeting at the office of Mr. Hoar, on Saturday afternoon. She was there on Saturday and presented the case to him. That official summoned Walker B. Sansay, editor of the paper to which the note and "ad" had been sent, and told him the original of the note and the "ad" was a forgery, under section 3 of the statute, relating to forgery, which prohibited the use of a false name, or the name of another to a letter, whereby the person is injured in good name; and it was decided to investigate. Miss Matthews, a young girl, was called to the office, and was directed to reply to any letters that might be received as the answer to the "ad."

She has not received a letter since she was called to the office, and she has not seen the description and would be pleased to make her acquaintance, and appointed a meeting at the office of Mr. Hoar, on Saturday afternoon. She was there on Saturday and presented the case to him. That official summoned Walker B. Sansay, editor of the paper to which the note and "ad" had been sent, and told him the original of the note and the "ad" was a forgery, under section 3 of the statute, relating to forgery, which prohibited the use of a false name, or the name of another to a letter, whereby the person is injured in good name; and it was decided to investigate. Miss Matthews, a young girl, was called to the office, and was directed to reply to any letters that might be received as the answer to the "ad."

She has not received a letter since she was called to the office, and she has not seen the description and would be pleased to make her acquaintance, and appointed a meeting at the office of Mr. Hoar, on Saturday afternoon. She was there on Saturday and presented the case to him. That official summoned Walker B. Sansay, editor of the paper to which the note and "ad" had been sent, and told him the original of the note and the "ad" was a forgery, under section 3 of the statute, relating to forgery, which prohibited the use of a false name, or the name of another to a letter, whereby the person is injured in good name; and it was decided to investigate. Miss Matthews, a young girl, was called to the office, and was directed to reply to any letters that might be received as the answer to the "ad."

She has not received a letter since she was called to the office, and she has not seen the description and would be pleased to make her acquaintance, and appointed a meeting at the office of Mr. Hoar, on Saturday afternoon. She was there on Saturday and presented the case to him. That official summoned Walker B. Sansay, editor of the paper to which the note and "ad" had been sent, and told him the original of the note and the "ad" was a forgery, under section 3 of the statute, relating to forgery, which prohibited the use of a false name, or the name of another to a letter, whereby the person is injured in good name; and it was decided to investigate. Miss Matthews, a young girl, was called to the office, and was directed to reply to any letters that might be received as the answer to the "ad."

She has not received a letter since she was called to the office, and she has not seen the description and would be pleased to make her acquaintance, and appointed a meeting at the office of Mr. Hoar, on Saturday afternoon. She was there on Saturday and presented the case to him. That official summoned Walker B. Sansay, editor of the paper to which the note and "ad" had been sent, and told him the original of the note and the "ad" was a forgery, under section 3 of the statute, relating to forgery, which prohibited the use of a false name, or the name of another to a letter, whereby the person is injured in good name; and it was decided to investigate. Miss Matthews, a young girl, was called to the office, and was directed to reply to any letters that might be received as the answer to the "ad."

She has not received a letter since she was called to the office, and she has not seen the description and would be pleased to make her acquaintance, and appointed a meeting at the office of Mr. Hoar, on Saturday afternoon. She was there on Saturday and presented the case to him. That official summoned Walker B. Sansay, editor of the paper to which the note and "ad" had been sent, and told him the original of the note and the "ad" was a forgery, under section 3 of the statute, relating to forgery, which prohibited the use of a false name, or the name of another to a letter, whereby the person is injured in good name; and it was decided to investigate. Miss Matthews, a young girl, was called to the office, and was directed to reply to any letters that might be received as the answer to the "ad."

She has not received a letter since she was called to the office, and she has not seen the description and would be pleased to make her acquaintance, and appointed a meeting at the office of Mr. Hoar, on Saturday afternoon. She was there on Saturday and presented the case to him. That official summoned Walker B. Sansay, editor of the paper to which the note and "ad" had been sent, and told him the original of the note and the "ad" was a forgery, under section 3 of the statute, relating to forgery, which prohibited the use of a false name, or the name of another to a letter, whereby the person is injured in good name; and it was decided to investigate. Miss Matthews, a young girl, was called to the office, and was directed to reply to any letters that might be received as the answer to the "ad."

She has not received a letter since she was called to the office, and she has not seen the description and would be pleased to make her acquaintance, and appointed a meeting at the office of Mr. Hoar, on Saturday afternoon. She was there on Saturday and presented the case to him. That official summoned Walker B. Sansay, editor of the paper to which the note and "ad" had been sent, and told him the original of the note and the "ad" was a forgery, under section 3 of the statute, relating to forgery, which prohibited the use of a false name, or the name of another to a letter, whereby the person is injured in good name; and it was decided to investigate. Miss Matthews, a young girl, was called to the office, and was directed to reply to any letters that might be received as the answer to the "ad."

She has not received a letter since she was called to the office, and she has not seen the description and would be pleased to make her acquaintance, and appointed a meeting at the office of Mr. Hoar, on Saturday afternoon. She was there on Saturday and presented the case to him. That official summoned Walker B. Sansay, editor of the paper to which the note and "ad" had been sent